CHRISTINE MITCHELL
Real-World Questions in Clinical Ethics

WEDNESDAY
April 20, 2016
3:30 p.m. reception • 4 p.m. talk
Minsky Recital Hall

Christine Mitchell is executive director of the Center for Bioethics and senior lecturer at Harvard Medical School. She received her bachelor’s and master’s degrees in science from Boston University School of Nursing and a master’s degree from Harvard where she majored in philosophical and religious ethics as a Kennedy Fellow in medical ethics through the Interfaculty Program at Harvard Medical School, Harvard Divinity School, and Harvard School of Public Health. She also is an elected fellow of the American Academy of Nurses.

Mitchell founded the ethics program at Boston Children’s Hospital, and for 30 years has directed the ethics consultation service and led the Ethics Advisory Committee. At Harvard Medical School, she leads monthly consortia on clinical ethics and research ethics, and chairs the leadership group of directors of the ethics programs and the ethics committees at Harvard-affiliated teaching hospitals. She also directs Harvard’s capstone program and seminar for students pursuing a master’s degree in bioethics.
